PREDATOR TARGETED TEENAGE GIRLS

By Lewis Berrill

barking@yellowad.co.uk

A DANGEROUS sexual predator has been jailed for more than seven years for multiple sex offences against teenage girls.

Peter Michael Fisher, 20, of Dagenham, used social media to target eight victims – aged between 13 and 16 – over a year-long period.

Fisher targeted the girls from his home and in one instance, while on a family holiday in Great Yarmouth, Norfolk.

He was first arrested by officers from the Met's Child Sexual Exploitation Team (SET) on August 15, 2017 following a complaint from two girls.

He was interviewed before being released and placed on conditional bail.

Following his arrest officers investigated Fisher's telephone and social media usage leading them to the victims.

Investigations revealed Fisher targeted children across the UK between October 1, 2016 and September 30, 2017.

In one particular case, Fisher had sexual intercourse with a 15-year-old girl, knowing she was under 16 years of age.

Detective Constable Steve Gradwell, from SET, said: "I would like to praise the children for their courage in speaking to officers and providing vital evidence to prosecute Fisher."

"Many of them were victims of online sexual offences and did not recognise that they were being abused. He used his social media profile to gain their trust and share intimate photos and then used those images to coerce his victims into sexual activity."

Fisher was re-arrested on November 22, 2017. He pleaded guilty at Snaresbrook Crown Court on January 5 to six counts of sexual communication with a child, two counts of causing or inciting a child to engage in sexual activity, two counts of malicious communication, one count of causing a child to watch a sexual act and possession of indecent photographs of a child.

Fisher pleaded not guilty to two counts of malicious communication; they are to lie on file.

He will be placed on the Sex Offenders' Register and will be subject to a Sexual Harm Prevention Order until further notice.

Fisher was sentenced at Snaresbrook Crown Court on Wednesday, May 2 to a total of seven and a half years' imprisonment.

DC Gradwell added: "My advice to any child or young person is: do not share pictures online that you would find embarrassing if anyone else, such as your friends or parents were to see them as you have no control over the images once sent."

"But if you are worried about someone sharing intimate pictures of you online please don't let embarrassment stop you from contacting the police."

"Fisher is a prolific sexual offender and it cannot be discounted that he has sexually abused other people. If you have been a victim of Fisher, please contact the Met's Sexual Exploitation Team on 020 8217 9817 – specially trained officers are there to support you."

Dancing star to shine at deaf arts showcase

A CHINGFORD girl looks set to inspire the next generation of deaf talent at a prestigious arts event in Birmingham.

Charlotte Housden, 10, of Chingford, who is deaf, is to take part in a performing arts weekend run by the National Deaf Children's Society.

Charlotte was chosen to take part in Raising the Bar after showcasing her impressive dance skills in her audition clip.

Raising the Bar was created in 2015 to demonstrate what the 50,000 deaf children and young people in the UK can achieve in performing arts.

Charlotte and 29 budding deaf artists, will spend May 12 and 13 in Birmingham at the Ruddock Arts centre.

They will take part in workshops from industry experts Music and the Deaf, Deaf Men Dancing and Deafinitely Theatre.

The weekend will culminate in a live showcase in front of friends and family.

Sporting legend Ben Cohen, one of England's 2003 Rugby World Cup winners, launched this year's event. He said: "I have been consistently proud and amazed at the quality of the performance and skill demonstrated by deaf young people who have attended Raising the Bar since 2015.

"Raising the Bar in Birmingham will give deaf children the chance to get together, learn new skills with some incredible professionals, and ultimately demonstrate the level of talent there is among deaf children and young people.

"It's brilliant to support such an amazing event and I hope many more deaf children and young people enter Raising the Bar next year."

Bryony Parkes, youth development officer and organiser of Raising the Bar, said: "Deaf children can do anything hearing children can do, if given the right support from the start.

"Raising the Bar is a testament to the talent of deaf children and young people.

"Charlotte has shown with her dancing ability that she has the potential to achieve greatness in performing arts."

Speeding five times in eight days

A MAN has been fined and banned from driving after he was caught speeding five times in eight days.

James Wilson, 56, of Flaxen Close, Chingford, was found guilty of five counts of failing to identify the driver of a vehicle by Basildon magistrates on Wednesday, May 2.

He was fined £900, ordered to pay £600 costs and a £30 victim surcharge and has been banned from driving for six months after receiving 30 points on his licence.

Between June 5 and 13 last year, Wilson's Renault Kangoo was caught by speed cameras driving at excess speed.

The vehicle was caught by the same speed camera four times on the A127 in Leigh-on-Sea and the other on the M11 in Chigwell.

Notices of prosecution were sent to Wilson who insisted that another person was driving his vehicle.

PC Daniel Cordwell, of Essex Police's Casualty Reduction Section, said: "Wilson produced details of a supposed employee for the five speeding offences, claiming he sacked him after numerous traffic offences. We conducted extensive enquiries with partner organisations and was able to prove this man was not employed by Wilson, who in turn was unable to provide any proof of employment or invoices of works completed by him.

"Wilson as the registered keeper of the vehicle has the responsibility to fully prove who was driving the car."

Driver jailed for road rage attack

A MAN who stopped his vehicle on the A127 and then smashed a car window during a road rage row has been jailed.

James Hare, 28, of Langley Gardens, Dagenham, was sentenced at Basildon Crown Court to 18 months for dangerous driving, two months for assault and one month for criminal damage, to run concurrently.

He was disqualified from driving for two years and nine months and received no separate penalty for driving with no insurance and failing to stop.

Hare had previously pleaded guilty to the offences at Basildon Magistrates' Court.

At 7pm on July 16 last year Hare was driving his Mercedes A class when he cut across traffic on the Nevedon roundabout and then drove up a slip road towards the A127.

PRISON: James Hare

A driver who noticed his careless driving flashed Hare, who then slammed on his brakes and stopped.

Hare got out of his car, threatened the driver and punched his window, causing cuts to the victim's arms.

He then drove off before being arrested in Dagenham later that day.

Investigating officer Sgt Simon Willsher, of Chigwell Roads Policing Unit, said: "Hare had a fit of rage after being flashed by someone who disagreed with his reckless behaviour.

"His behaviour then went to dangerous after stopping on a live 70mph road.

"Hare got out of his vehicle, walked towards the victim's car while swearing and shouting and then punched his window before driving off at speed.

"Hare failed to stop at the accident and even after his arrest, he failed to appear at court for his first hearing.

"He thought he was above the law but now has time to think about his actions locked in a prison cell."

Cricket and cycling projects to offer sporting chance to those in recovery

ESSEX County Cricket Club and Barking and Dagenham Council have joined forces to deliver two sporting recovery projects.

More than 40 residents were in Barking Park to hone their cycling and cricket skills at a taster day.

The projects – Pedal Power and One Hit to another Hit – are aimed at the borough's service users, some of whom are in recovery, to help them to be active and gain confidence.

For One Hit to another Hit, county champions Essex will deliver training to participants that will enable them to "give back" and organise community cricket activities.

The training programme will include safeguarding, first aid and umpiring.

Pedal Power is a cycling project that provides participants with training in bike maintenance, riding techniques, and healthy living. It will make use of bikes that are not reclaimed after theft and stored by the

RIDE ON: Residents experience a taste of the Pedal Power scheme at Barking Park

Metropolitan Police. Those who can show they are not committing crime, or are in effective drug or alcohol treatment for six months, will be allowed to keep the bikes.

Sonia Drozd, senior commissioner for adult care and support, said: "We were determined to build upon the success of the taster sessions that took place in November with Essex Cricket Club and hope this latest initiative will be even stronger. This creates an opportunity for individuals to deliver cricket to the wider community and become a coach at the same time. They can also gain a qualification in Cytech – a recognised training and accreditation scheme for bicycle technicians.

"The recovery programmes provide fantastic opportunities to support individuals in their recovery and enhance their health and wellbeing."

PC dismissed from Met for creating impression she was at work when she was absent

A POLICE constable has been dismissed from the force for misleading bosses into thinking she was at work when she was not.

PC Sarah Medlock, attached to the East Area Command Unit, admitted to gross misconduct at a hearing on Tuesday, May 1.

It was alleged, on multiple occasions between November 9, 2015 and May 11, 2016, PC Medlock knowingly allowed another police officer to log into the police "booking on" system to create the impression she was at work when she was not.

PC Medlock admitted some of the allegations and that those allegations amounted to gross misconduct.

The panel dismissed her without notice for a breach of the standards of professional behaviour in respect of "honesty and integrity" and "dis-creditable conduct".

Medlock will be placed on a police barred list preventing future employment elsewhere in policing.

Woman critical in hospital following collision with a car

POLICE are appealing for witnesses after a woman was critically injured in a collision with a car in Chingford.

Police were called at 3am on Monday, May 7 to an accident in Station Road.

Officers attending the scene established a Ford Focus had been in a collision with a female pedestrian.

The woman was taken to hospital where she remains in a critical condition. Enquiries are under way to establish her identity.

The driver of the car, a 23-year-old man, stopped at the scene.

He was arrested on suspicion of causing serious injury by dangerous driving and released under investigation pending further enquiries.

Anyone who witnessed the collision or has information that may assist police should call traffic officers at Chadwell Heath on 020 8597 4874.
